

Embroidery on leather can be done, but there are limitations. The pictured designs are considered open or light embroidery. Having open embroidery designs, keeps the needle penetrations to a minimum. A very dense embroidery design (similar to patches) has many needle penetrations and this may allow tearing along the needle penetrations. Very similar to perforated paper, that tears easily.

